

Lynn Kessler Baru, MD

Education & Training:

Dr. Lynn Kessler Baru is a board-certified physician in Endocrinology, Diabetes, and Metabolism. Her primary clinical interests are diabetes, thyroid, pituitary and adrenal disorders.

She received her BS degree from Yale University, and medical degree from the NYU School of Medicine. Residency training in Internal Medicine and fellowship training in Endocrinology, Diabetes and Metabolism were both completed at the University of Chicago.

Experience:

She currently resides in Asheville, NC where in 2016, she joined Mountain Diabetes and Endocrine Center. Prior to that, Dr. Baru practiced endocrinology at John H. Stroger Hospital of Cook County in Chicago, IL, and was an assistant professor at Rush University Medical Center.

About Me:

In my spare time, she enjoys spending time with her three boys, running, hiking, and traveling.

